The Fabulous Fun Fall Festival

By Khush Mehta

Fall is in the air! LISG celebrated the fall with the annual fall festival. It was celebrated on the 20th of October. The rain date was October 22. There was also a hoedown for the lower school on the 15th of October. At the hoedown, there were many fun activities, and arts and crafts. The teachers did face painting and other temporary tattoos. Parents were invited to the hoedown, and it took place from 3:30-5 pm after school. Snacks were given, such as apples, apple cider, and popcorn. In addition, there was also a Fall festival for grades 4-6. There were batches of pumpkins to choose from, and you could choose your own pumpkin from a pumpkin patch! Students picked one, and decorated it with paint and stickers at one of many stations. In addition, there was a photo booth, lawn games, science experiments, and explanations. And of course, everyone's favorite dance-a-thon, Cotton-Eye-Joe was

Welcome Fest Together

By Anil Trinidad

A massive hurricane was predicted to hit the Long Island region on September 1st causing flooding and destruction. Everyone in the area was advised to take cover. The First Annual Welcome Fest Together was also supposed to be on the 1st of September and was in danger of getting hit by the hurricane so it was changed to the 27th due to the hurricane (that never happened!!). The Togetherfest was a fun time to welcome students back to LISG. The school had a 60-foot inflatable obstacle course, lawn games, including a corn hole and of course plenty of ice cream! It was a great start to the new school year!

School during the pandemic

By Vinay Kamath

Coming into 2020, everybody was unsure about what to expect for school. Some people thought that school would be remote learning starting in September. LISG had a staggered start. That meant lower school started first in early September when school was supposed to start for everyone. The middle school joined in late September. Finally, by October, the upper school finally came to school in person. Kids had the option to either be remote for as long as they wanted for the year or be in person. This was a really good idea because now no one would fall behind in their academics. However, in reality, students learned way less than they should have learned while working asynchronously. This made it hard for teachers to work with in-person kids and online kids. The internet was also a problem. Kids at home sometimes had to wait 20 minutes for the teacher to unfreeze. The kids in person were able to answer and ask more questions while the kids at home were less engaged. Also, it was less fun. If you were in school and your best friend was remote, you would not get to talk much. There was no recess and lunch was very isolated.

This September 2021, LISG welcomed a full in-person school. There was no remote option but everyone still had to wear masks. School has been more exciting to attend now that everyone is back in the classroom. The pandemic helped teach us how to be safe and spread fewer germs. The pandemic showed us where to improve in safety and how important frontliners are in a pandemic.

Interview with Dr. Geyer

Is wearing masks and social distancing going to be the new normal?

Well, only time in 2022 will tell.

Will things get better later in the year?

Hard to predict. We have a lower school so we will have to be very careful.

What do you like most about this year that was not there last year?

Now the parents can be a part of the LISG family. However, they must prove they are vaccinated.

What are you most disappointed about this year and last year?

The cancellation of field trips.

What do you think September will be like in 2022? I hope next year is better.

Meet the Teacher Night

By Tiffany Liang

Time to meet all the teachers!

Meet the teacher night was a night when parents got a chance to meet teachers. They also got to see Mrs. Ambrosio's art show which featured artistic creations by LISG students in grades K-9. The artwork included pinwheels made by grade 4 and pointillism done on small canvas made by 8th grade.

LISG welcomed six new teachers this year at meet the teacher night. Ms. DeLalla and Miss Ambrosio joined the lower school while in the middle and upper school we have Mr. Yanez, Mrs. Cortez, Miss Knapp, and Miss Stickney.

During the meet the teacher night the parents were all given their child's schedule to follow. The parents first gathered in their child's homeroom to watch the morning announcements. Each period was 7 minutes long. A student council member announced on the PA system when it was time to switch classes. The parents got a great opportunity to follow their child's schedule for the evening. During what would have been lunch time, parents went to the cafeteria to learn about their kids' extracurriculars or their ninth period elective. Student council members helped direct traffic and usher lost parents in the intersections of hallways.

Halloween

By Vinay Kamath

On Oct 29, 2021 LISG hosted their annual Halloween parade. From kindergarten to 6th grade, students were led around the parking lot to show off their costumes to the parents. This year, there was also a haunted house by Mrs. Aziz and Mrs. Garay. Every grade got to walk through as a spooky treat! At the end of the day, there were parties in all homerooms. Parents send in goodies with snacks, games, and Halloween-themed crafts.

Halloween first started in 609 AD. Pope Boniface III made a Catholic feast called All Saints day.

In the 9th Century, Christianity spread. All Saints day became All Souls day. All Souls day was on November 2nd. People honored the dead. Another influence for Halloween was Samhain. Samhain was an American Indian holiday. The American Indians wore costumes to ward off ghosts. Over time, Samhain evolved into All-Hallows-eve. Eventually, All-Hallows-eve became Halloween. Halloween used to be in certain communities and over time spread to more towns. Now, Halloween is all over the country and is a good way to get candy!

On Halloween you can dress up as a character, your hero, a real-life person, or a historical figure. Most people try to dress up as the scariest person possible. Halloween is the only day of the year when you can be someone else. Halloween is a funny but scary holiday. Enjoy your Hallo- SCREAM!

New Teachers Spotlight

By Tiffany Liang and Mehreen Hunjan

This year LISG welcomes six new teachers. We have two new teachers in the lower school and four new teachers in the middle and upper school. Read further to learn more about our new teachers!

Mr. Yanez is an english, language arts, writer's workshop teacher. He teaches grades 4, 6-9.

What school did you teach at before?

I worked for seven years as a teacher in public schools before coming to LISG.

Did you just graduate?

No, I've had my Master's degree for over five years now.

What are you most excited for?

Summer vacation. Runner-up is seeing my cat when I get home.

What do you teach?

I teach English, Language Arts, Writer's Workshop, and (hopefully soon) Dungeons and Dragons!

Favorite thing about teaching?

Talking about books, and reading everyone's work - it's amazing how creative the students at LISG are.

Why did you choose teaching?

It's a gratifying feeling to work with the younger generation. The classroom has always felt like the place where I belong, and now that I'm here, I wouldn't want to go anywhere else.

Where did you graduate from?

I attended St. Joseph's College for my undergrad, and Long Island University for my Master's.

What do you love about teaching?

Grading tests ;)

Miss Stickney is a history teacher. She teaches grades 5-9.

What school did you teach at before?

This is my first official teaching job, which is amazing because I get to have my first full teaching experience at LISG! Everyone has been wonderful so far.

Did you just graduate?

I graduated in 2021 at Hunter College in Manhattan, NY! I received my Bachelors in Secondary History Education. I am now going for my graduate degree at Stony Brook, studying Administration.

What are you most excited for?

I'm excited to be here at LISG! All the students and teachers are so kind and respectful.

What do you teach?

Social Studies!

What is your favorite thing to teach?

I love teaching WW2 and anything that took place in the 1960s.

What do you love about teaching?

I love the kids!

What year did you graduate?

2021

Why did you want to become a teacher?

I've always had a love for helping students out. However my love for teaching started when I was a coach for Baton Twirling. I started as an assistant coach when I was 14 years old and worked my way up to be an official travel coach who had teams place first at nationals. This dedication really made me fall in love with teaching and I started to look into education at College.

Where did you graduate from?

Hunter College.

Miss Knapp is an English and history teacher. She teaches grades 4-7.

What are you most excited for?

All of the amazing events planned here at LISG. Excited!

What do you teach?

I teach history and english but I can also teach math.

What do you love about teaching?

The different relationships and bonds I make with each student.

Why did you want to become a teacher?

I wanted to make a difference in kids' lives like my teachers did for me growing up.

What is your favorite thing about teaching?

Learning something new everyday from my students.

Stay tuned in to the next edition of the Green Grawl for more teacher interviews!

New Students

By Nathan Ma and Tiffany Liang

This year, LISG welcomed four new students from all around the world. Students came from China, Mexico, Austria, and Canada.

They were very nervous on the first day of school. No one knew what to expect. They had never heard about LISG, and everything was different.

When they first visited the school, some of them thought it was a lot smaller compared to the schools they used to go to. Others thought the school was larger than their other school. The new students found it a lot easier to fit in and make friends since the grade was a lot smaller. They were not sure if it would be easy to fit in, but some of them thought it was going to be easy. The new students were a little worried when they discovered they had to take an SAT prep class. They were also a little overwhelmed by the large amount of homework they received. One student, who was at ASF (The American School Foundation) in Mexico City before, said her favorite class is the easiest class for her, which is Spanish class.

Overall, coming to LISG has been a very new and wonderful experience for the students.
